

FRAUDSIDE

Hanover High School

Maroon Shirts

Overthrow Council,

Institute "Smithtatorship"

by Daniel Zegans ('18)

Jubilant cries erupted from the chorus room as masses of students clad in maroon stormed into Council and threw out the of Council representatives. This group, named the “Maroon Shirts,” advanced on Council in order to dispose of the previous democratic system present in HHS and replace it with a total dictatorship, under the control of Hayden Smith. I asked several Maroon Shirts why they wanted Hayden in power and received a variety of answers. Some students felt that Council was taking too long in deciding whether to purchase a Hibachi grill for students to use in the pit and felt a dictator would make up his mind faster. Other students were tired of the Health and Gym requirements at HHS and were swayed by Hayden’s idea of replacing these classes with new courses on Memes and Hibachi cooking instead. Whichever it is, it is clear that the new order is here to stay and very angry.

Two weeks into the Smithtatorship and tensions are as hot as the surface of a Hibachi grill. After ousting Council, students wanted change, but it turned out that Hayden has no cents, no cents at all. While Hayden promised the moon, it seems that he has been thus far unable to deliver on any of his promises. When approached for comment Hayden simply remarked “I have more important things to think about, like buying tendies from the Co-op, mmm tendies...” Hayden then slowly wandered off in the direction of the Co-op, drool leaking from his mouth. While I understand students’ frustration with Council, I fear that we may have put a tendie-obsessed madman in power.

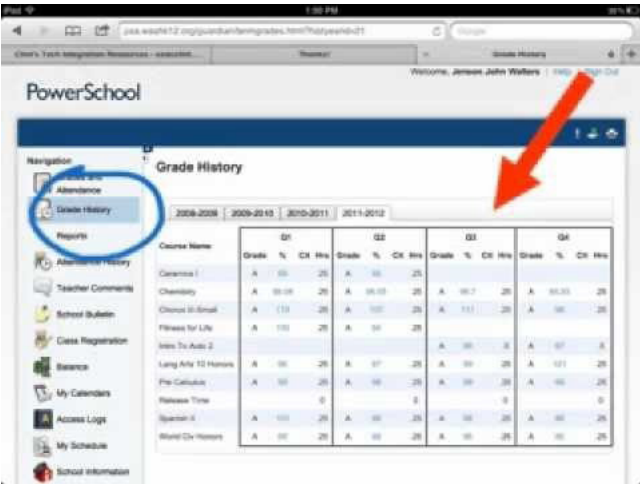

WII THE PEOPLE: Students paint mural to celebrate partnership with Nintendo Wii. The gaming console's musical soundtrack has been receiving millions of hits and online downloads in the Hanover area, closely followed by the Kahoot music trap remix. Photo by Sophie Caulfield ('21).

Proficiency-Based Grading Compels Student to Hack

Powerschool

by Stephen Wang ('20)

Simply said, the 100-point system already provides a precise snapshot of a student’s academic achievement. Now think about proficiency grading from a scale of 0 to 4, where a student gets a score calculated based on the mode of all assignments. Students cannot simply be split into a few camps when tests and large assignments merit more than just a few points. And since when did the math world endorse a 3 out of 4 as an 88%? The one biggest flaw in the system is the mode calculation. A student can maintain a desired grade for bombing the final exam. Say someone has five 3s and four 2s on assessments at the end of the semester. If they get a 2 on the final, their overall grade would be a 2. Had they gotten a 1 or 0 on the final, their overall grade would be a 3. And for this matter, proficiency-based grading provoked a case of cheating in our school. A student ran into the exact same situation above at the end of last semester, and he changed his grades using his insane hacking skills. Unfortunately, the teacher looked at the student’s portal in finalizing grades and realized that his grade suddenly skyrocketed. The teacher has talked with the student and he is facing dire consequences: he has already flunked out of the class and needs to retake it before moving on to the next grade.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=690btQ8slmo>

HHS Cafeteria Converted Into "Chez Daley"

Ford was ignored when he told freshmen to treat the caf as a fine restaurant, so he turned it into one. However, its continual messiness has led its ratings on the website Yelp to tank since opening.

Photo by Sophie Caulfield ('21).

HHS Undergoes Peaceful Transition of Power by Jasper Zeng ('18)

Earlier this week, Council elected to hand all of its power to the great Hayden Smith due to the many failures they have faced. The transition of power was peaceful with no violence or any solicitation and was met with a loud applause from those in attendance. After being granted power, Smith declared himself as Generalissimo. In this time of crisis, the Generalissimo has taken power to restore order, peace, and prosperity to the school. The Generalissimo has started to tear down the corrupt democracy of the school and replace it with a completely uncorrupt oligarchy. The democracy used by Council was corrupt and rigged and didn't benefit the wishes of the general student body. However, the Generalissimo's oligarchy won't be skewed towards himself at all and will definitely benefit everyone. One of the plans the Generalissimo has is to expand the territory of the school so students will no longer have to sign out whenever they leave the building as the whole town will be on-campus. Another plan is to retract the community service motion as the new policy going forward is "school first." The Generalissimo has also built a Hibachi grill in the pit. The Grill is the most amazing thing ever and would never have existed if the inept Council still existed. If anyone claims anything contrary to what has been reported here please contact the Generalissimo and he will have it taken care of. This message has been sponsored by CNN and Fox News, the most reliable places to get news.

PSA:

Many missing flash drives have been left around school. Owners are asked to come to the Front Office to reclaim them.

Fraudside Staff:

Sec. of Benevolence: Hayden Smith ('18), Daniel Zegans ('18)
Supreme Admiral General: Gabe Brison-Treize
Intelligence/National Security Minister: Caleb Benjamin ('19)
Propaganda Minister: Claire Austin-Washburn ('19)
Sports Editors: Moises Celaya ('18), Briland Laycock ('18)
State Entertainment Director: Julia Cook ('21)
"Evidence Creator" / Minister of Truth: Sophie Caulfield ('21)
Media Creators: Stephen Wang ('20), Justin Zhou ('20)

Field Laborers:

Johanna Bandler ('18), Sarah Dunbar ('18), Perrin Milliken ('18), Kyle Postans ('18), Jasper Zeng ('18), Audrey Lee ('19), Will Cahoon ('21), Sophie Usherwood ('21)

About: The Fraudside is the official bringer of truth of Hanover High School in Hanover, New Hampshire, published by the Maroon Shirts.

Seniors Turn Pit Into Ball Pit, Saying, "Ball Is Life".
Photo by Sophie Caulfield ('21).

dad's credit card

Preppy Upper-Middle Class Highschool Student Starterpack

We won't say that this isn't accurate. Meme provided by Soren Monroe-Anderson.

Horsemeat Found In Co-op Chicken Tenders

by Hayden Smith ('18)

HHS senior Sam Beliveau considers himself to be a fan of horses. After all, "Bojack Horseman" is one of his favorite TV shows. So, it was much to his surprise when he discovered that the Co-op chicken tenders that he had loved eating so much did not actually contain chicken, but rather horsemeat.

Evidence of the use of horsemeat in the "tendies" that are so beloved by many students at Hanover High emerged after a sting by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA). Investigations had begun after a Costco customer was seen eating tendies and said that they "tasted like chicken." As common knowledge goes, things that taste like chicken are not actually chicken.

A protest movement against the Co-op has already started at the school. Students were seen rioting in the Atrium, yelling, "Nay to horsemeat!"

Beliveau was clearly not pleased with the findings. All he had to say was "REEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEE!"

School restocks vending machines with more in-demand products. Photo by Sophie Caulfield ('21).

EDITOR'S NOTE!!1!!!1!: So, yeah, um, if you couldn't tell already, this is a prank issue intended for April Fools' Day. Everything (well, most almost everything) in here is FAKE NEWS!

Follow us on...

Zucktown
Where your data is safest.

Twit-for-Tat
Where you can go on 140-
280 character rants.

Finstagram
Where Daddy Zucc can still see you.

The Website
Oh yeah, that place.